

International Executive Program in Project Management 2017 (14th Batch) organized jointly by NUS and the University of Moratuwa

The Centre for Project Management and Construction Law, Department of Building, National University of Singapore jointly hosted the above program with the Centre for Excellence in Project Management, University of Moratuwa, Sri Lanka between 27th June and 7th July 2017.

20 senior-level participants attended the program which was conducted in Singapore. The organizations which they represented were from both the private and public sector and included the Ceylon Electricity Board, ICC, CRIP, Road Development Authority, CPSTL and Maga. Many of these organizations have been sending their senior staff members to attend this program annually.

The participants attended workshops covering the following areas: project management, quality management, project planning and scheduling, Singapore's built environment & productivity movement, managing professional consultants' services, value management, sustainability, procurement management, project cost estimation & management, international construction management, dispute management, project appraisal & evaluation, project risk management, project finance, facilities management and Construction 3D Printing. The workshops were conducted by professors from NUS and Moratuwa as well as senior building practitioners from the industry. Professor Ananda Jayawardena, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Moratuwa was also present at the event.

Apart from these workshops, three site/organization visits were also conducted for the participants. They visited a MRT construction site in Tampines, the HDB Gallery and the URA City Gallery.
